

Physical Growth and Regression Characteristics Among Yadava Boys of Visakhapatnam District, Andhra Pradesh, India

B. Dharma Rao and B.R. Busi

Department of Anthropology, Andhra University, Waltair 530 003, Andhra Pradesh, India

KEYWORDS Growth. Yadava. Anthropometry. Skinfolts. Andhra Pradesh

ABSTRACT A cross-sectional purposive random sample of 757 Yadava boys, aged 1-20 years was collected to study the growth patterns on the basis of stature, body weight, upper arm circumference, calf circumference and skinfold thickness. The regression analysis shows that stature, body weight, upper arm circumference and calf circumference increase with increase in age.