

Impact of Embroidery Training on Women (Part-II)

Nidhi, Saroj S. Jeet Singh and Saroj Yadav

Department of Clothing and Textiles, College of Home Science, CCS HAU, Hisar 125 004, Haryana, India

KEYWORDS Impact. Embroidery. Training. Assessment. Knowledge

ABSTRACT The study on impact assessment of embroidery training on 30 women in Hisar and Sirsa districts of Haryana state revealed that the impact of training was found to be of medium level. This means women acquired favourable attitude but medium level of knowledge. The knowledge acquisition and attitude were found to be non-significantly related with age, occupation, and family educational status, education of the respondent, caste and economic motivation.