

The Imperativeness of Multiculturalism to Counselling Practice in Nigeria

Oyaziwo Aluede¹ and Agnes Maliki²

- 1. Ambrose Alli University, PMB 14, Ekpoma, Nigeria*
- 2. Niger Delta University, Wilberforce Island, Bayelsa, Nigeria*

KEYWORDS Multiculturalism; counselling practices; nigeria; cross-cultural counselling

ABSTRACT The paper explored the challenges, which multiculturalism poses to counselling practice. Authors provided the benefits of multiculturalism in counselling practice, which include assisting clients to develop the ability to combat the debilitating effects of negative environmental forces.